LOCAL ROUNDUPS.

Wanted:—A small second hand cook stove and outfit. Inquire at this office.

The principal amusement on our streets Friday and Saturday was chasing hats.

There has been considerable fluctuation in real estate here within the last few days.

Dick McGinnis writes us from the Gallinas that he has struck it rich again. He promises us a chunk of the ore soon.

Ed. R. Bonnell keeps all kinds of deed and location blanks at his office, the only place in town where they are sold, so far as we know.

The White Oaks House has lately been renovated and is now in full blast. Mrs. J. B. Collier is again looking after the comfort of guests.

Col. T. W. Heman returned from the Nogals Wednesday, where he had been to examine the Rockford mine, and other properties in that district.

Dunning & Miller's Miller and Sam McPherson started to Las Vegas, Thursday. They expect to take in all the shows and the big hotel, while gone.

People no doubt have noticed a kind of blue haze in the atmosphere around here of late. It does not portend a coming storm, but is only local, and will disappear after the returns are all in and the bets paid or declared off.

The best place in town to learn what is going on is at the Real Estate and Mining Exchange of Ed. R. Bonnell. He has made several good sales within the last few days and has more under way. Besides Ed always keeps things lively around his office.

A wrong impression prevailed, Saturday, as to the time of the funeral and burial of John Tenley. Many understood the time to be 2 o'clock, instead of 1 o'clock, hence the disappointment to many that would have attended.

Ben Henry says if he cannot be school director, he can at least direct the business end of the Sunday Morning Tape-worm, and make that aggregation of Teutonic jaw at the other end of him—who wanted to be Coroner—flap around every time he wiggles. Ben is mad, and says he would have been elected if Paul Wagner and the other Dutchmen had not put up a job on him.

Miss Edith Prescott, of Vera Cruz, and Miss Jennie Hays brightened the LEADER office for a few brief, fleeting moments, on last Thursday. They came to see if we looked like other people, and whether or not, people in New Mexico had to run an arsenal in connection with a newspaper. They went away reassured, but a timid ghost of brightness remained in the sanctum after their departure.

Mr. Welding a few days ago brought in from the Patos, the flesh of a recently slaughtered hog, a part of which was sent to Dr. J. T. Reid for inspection and after a very careful examination he found it to contain myriads of parasites known as spiralis trichina. Its presence has been known to produce death in every instance where used as food unless first thoroughly cooked.

As there is usually considerable pork coming into market about this time it will be well for consumers to look after this parasite before taking it into their systems.

A Shooting Affair.

The only fatal shooting match we have had in our town for over two years, occurred on the 3rd inst. A man by the name of John Tenley, in the employ of the South-western Stage company, while in a state of intoxication, became possessed of an intense desire to "shoot somebody up," and finally selected Mr. Ben Jacobs, of this place as his target. Mr. Jacobs did all that a peaceable and law-abiding citizen could do to pacify a man crazed with drink, and finally did succeed in quieting him down for a time. Tenley afterward sent him word to heel himself, as he meant to shoot him on sight. On the following evening he again ran across Jacobs in Hays' Billiard Hall, and again abused him in a shameful manner, until finally, Jacobs finding it utterly impossible to shake him off, hit him on the head with a billiard cue, which stopped the racket for that night. A day or two afterwards, he was again on the streets making threats against Jacob's life, but the latter succeeded in avoiding him. During the evening he met Stanley Tallafiero, of the Era office, on the street and mistaking him for Jacobs, cocked his revolver and was about to fire but seeing he had mistaken his man, returned his weapon remarking: "It was a good thing you spoke, young fellow, or you would have got it," and added with an oath that he was hunting that man Jacobs to kill him. The next morning he was again on the streets, making the same threats, and Jacobs finding that he could not much longer evade him, armed himself with a Winchester, and when Tenley came into the store where Jacobs was staying the latter pulled down on him, and as he continued to advance Jacobs fired and Tenley fell dead.

In this melancholy affair, we have this to say for Mr. Jacobs, that he conducted himself with a forbearance far beyond the average citizen, and only shot when it had become a question of life or death with him. He is a quiet, genial citizen who would not wilfully offend any one, and only a few days before this sad occurrence he told the writer of this in a private conversation that he had never carried a revolver since coming to White Oaks.

This is one of those melancholy events that can be attributed entirely to benzene on the brain, as the victim is said to have been peaceable enough when sober.

The verdict of the coroner's inquest was: "Justifiable homicide."

The enterprising house of M. Whiteman, made a shipment of wool from his store rooms, Tuesday. It went out on Broadhorn's Express, billed for Vegas.

Our attention is called to a local in the Golden Era of the 2nd inst., which states that "the directors of the Homestake Gold Mining Company held a special meeting at White Oaks, on the 31st day of October, at which meeting Theo. W. Heman was removed as president of the company and Edwin S. Chester, of St. Louis was elected to the office of president of said company for the unexpired term."

While it is not our intention to criticize the home directory of this company, or the notice published in the Golden Era, yet we do say, that this treatment of disrespect to Col. Heman, at the hands of the local directory and the Golden Era, whether intentional or not, is destined to do neither any good. Col. Heman has proven himself, during his short stay among White Oaks people, to be an intelligent, sober, active business man, alive to the best interests of this promising mine and company. All differences of its management should be adjusted privately, and such informal meetings as the one in question, not given newspaper notoriety. We furnish the above in justice to Col. T. W. Heman, who is still president of the company, legally speaking, notwithstanding the action of the Board to the contrary.

San Patricio.

San Patricio Lincoln Co., N. M. November 1st, 1882. At a meeting called by Jose Maguel Saddillo, Justice of the Peace of precinct No. 2, on motion John Necomb was chosen chairman and Francisco Trullio was chosen secretary.

On motion made by Don Jose Manuel Guiteres to extend the time of turning stock loose until the first day of December, 1882.

Seconded by Juan Trujillo. Motion put to vote and carried by twenty-three in favor and five against.

A motion was also made and carried that the foregoing be as binding as the law until the first day of December, 1882.

John W. Miller, Juan Trullios, Jose M. Saddilla, Andres Nodellen, Franco Trullio, Joseph Storms, Jose M. Guiteres, Santiago Herera, Benito Trullio, Roman Baragan, Tomas Gurale, Juan Chavez, Ygnacio Torres, Eedro Suicnare, Manuel Syba, Jesus Biderio, Petro Trullio, Donven Guiteres, Teranuesco Sanchez Y Gonzales, Cassinero Barrillo.

The people of precinct No. 2, think Easton and Miller, Gonzales and Galles if elected, will use their influence to put the stock laws in better shape and not spend all their time at Santa Fe in talking about what ought to be done and then doing nothing. The people of Lincoln county, and the Territory at large need more wholesome laws for their government and the voters of this precinct believe these are the men to do it.

Even the fair sex here are taking a lively interest in the election of some of the candidates on the ticket and hope to see them elected.

JOSE.

Justice Lea has the serene satisfaction of knowing that he has the good wishes of his friends at home.

Just wait until those fellows up around Oconomowoc, Koshkonong and Sheboygan get through voting and we will show you.

M. Whiteman has gone to Las Vegas, after more goods. He is preparing for the boom, that the grading of the El Paso and White Oaks R. R. will create soon.

A transfer on the Real Estate books of Ed. R. Bonnell, last week shows a sale, by this agent to Adna Hanson of 12 town lots in Kinsley Kansas.—Consideration $1,000.

Col. Milne and Mr. Bush of Chicago returned today from an extended tour of inspection of the cattle range between White Oaks and the Rio Grande.

The Segador member of the firm of Robson & Young—an active young business man in the mercantile line—has gone to Vegas for miners supplies.

The Pioneer store of M. Whiteman is jobbing a big lot of goods to White Oaks merchants. The business of this house has grown with other business in White Oaks, from a small stock of $2,000 to that of $50,000.

A number of our White Oaks merchants have gone to Las Vegas to buy goods—El Paso and Socorro Jobbers please take notice—The two latter places are nearer to White Oaks than Las Vegas. Why is this thus?

The reporter learned that a wedding had lately taken place in a very quiet way, but the parties being rather young and modest withheld to notify us in the usual way with generous sections of cake which maketh the printers eyeballs jingle.

The Silver Glance mine, owned by the Leavenworth and White Oaks Co., is showing a fine grade of copper glance ore. This showing is in a shaft about 30 feet deep and is in streaks which have put in after leaving the surface. As depth is attained these streaks widen and the other vein matter is making a good change. The present showing should warrant 50 feet more shafting at once.

Judge Tomlinson made Uncle John Walters a present of the $100 he (the Judge) had won of Uncle John on the Judge carrying White Oaks precinct. Had the Judge been elected Sheriff, ordinary human nature might lend itself to such rash acts, but this is one of the many similar commendable acts which characterizes the Judge as a free, generous hearted gentleman, that he is.

The loafers and hoodlums of Albuquerque gather at the river daily to watch the spectacular performance of seeing the native women wade the Rio Grande. The tolls at the bridge are so exorbitant that they prefer to roll up their pantaloons, as it were, and take to the water.

The Rio Grande Republican says:

"One half of the Golden Era is copied from the Mesilla News, and one half of the Mesilla News is copied from the Golden Era. In this way, one editor should suffice for both."

The Republican does not seem to catch the full meaning. It takes the News man and the Era man both to make that editor, and it is a close shave, even then.

A Riddled Raider.

James Bean, a noted Texas desperado who was captured in that state, not long since after a desperate fight and taken to Kansas, for killing City Marshal Brown of Caldwell, last summer, has died in jail at Wellington. He had twelve shots in his body, including two Winchester balls. The post mortem examination showed his death directly due to a No. 2 shot which took him in the forehead, entering the brain, and others in the body; he lived for thirty days and talked of his recovery up to within twenty-four hours of his death. He had been a desperate man, having been engaged in deeds of atrocity since he was twenty years old, and carried besides the wounds he received at his capture, marks of ten other balls and many scars.

The Socorro and Albuquerque papers are throwing doughnuts at each others heads. Hear the Sun go for the other fellows:

The thriving little town of Albuquerque has never allowed an opportunity to slip when it could give Socorro a kick because its citizens now and then disregarded the law and summarily dealt with criminals. An Albuquerque citizen had a stereotyped expression when he greeted a man from Socorro, viz: "Hello! just up from a strangleing town? Sorry you live in such a wicked community. Look at Albuquerque law-abiding citizens and a prosperous town; no hard characters tolerated here."

Uv course not Albuquerque is a regular Christian Advocate sort of a town, but a few nights ago some burglars entered a hardware store and carried off a wheelbarrow load of six-shooters and rifles, and now they clamor for a committee of safety, or vigilance committee—any kind of an organization that would suppress lawlessness and hang a man when necessary.

And the "good citizens" of that town did meet and organize a committee of safety, and capitalists and lawless characters are hereby warned to give Albuquerque the cold shoulder or look up a tree.

Grabbed by the Legs

Under the treaty of Washington, fresh fish from the British provinces may be imported into this country duty free. Several barrels of frogs' legs were attempted to be imported under the provision. The customs officers being unwilling to decide so delicate and interesting a question in natural history, the treasury department decides that frogs' legs must pay a duty. It will gratify every friend of American industry to know that the free, intelligent, and independent frogs of the United States are to be protected by this decision, from competition with the pauper frogs of Nova Scotia and Canada.
